ENGLISH TROOPS IN ADVANCE ALONG GERMAN FRONT EARLY THIS MORNING CAPTURE MANY VILLAGES.

Verdun Attack Not Diminished—Russians Advancing Along Entire Line to Counteract Activities on Western Front.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, July 14.—At daylight this morning the British, resuming the offensive north of the Somme, attacked German second line defenses and, according to the report of their commander, Sir Douglas Haig, succeeded in penetrating them on a front of four miles. Press dispatches from the front add the villages of Dazentin, Le Grand, and Longueval, north of Monastier, and the remaining portion of the German line were taken by the British.

While it was expected the British would not allow any great length of time to elapse before continuing their operations, it was hardly believed the German second line would be attacked after only one day of artillery preparation, for it was only day before yesterday that they completed the capture of the first line in the region between Hardecourt and Oivillers. The direction of the attack was something of a surprise. Instead of pushing towards Comblanchien, General Haig attacked the flank of the Germans, who faced Contalmaison and Oivillers, and those who still occupied Pozieres. The advance on Longueval, Dazentin and Le Grand, it is accomplished, gives the British possession of many important roads running in various directions which have been a great help to the British in supplying their army during the last few days.

Along the entire front, there was no news this morning of important developments on the western front. At last accounts the French were preparing to resume the offensive south of the Somme, while the Germans were still hammering at the defenses of Verdun. It is believed, however, that continuation of the battle will compel the Germans to retreat to positions at Verdun which now have been in progress five months, especially as the French estimate the Germans lost 12,000 men in counter-attacks on Contalmaison.

Russians Advance. The Russians have made no noticeable advance on any part of their front since the capture of the Stokhod river where the struggle continued for the right bank has been cleared of the Germans. It is not known here whether the Russians have gained a firm footing in the left bank, second Von Bolthner, having received reinforcements, has succeeded in holding the Russian line. The Russians have taken Delatyn, but having an advantage from which further progress is expected. The operations in the Caucasus are becoming more important.

After suffering heavy losses in their counter-offensive, the Turks are now being pressed back toward Balburn and Erzerum, while the Russian have brought up reinforcements. The Turkish, who drove them from Kermanshah.

PEACE HOPES OF TEUTONS SHATTERED

CENTRAL EMPIRES CANNOT EXPECT ALLIES TO ADMIT DEFEAT SAYS PRESIDENT POINCARÉ.

FRANCE HAS HOLIDAY

Celebration of National Holiday is Marked by Review of Allied Troops and Speech by President.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Paris, July 14.—"The central powers are under no illusion as to the possibility of inducing the allies to a confession of defeat," said President Poincaré in an address today in connection with the celebration of the French national holiday, the twentieth anniversary of the signing of the peace treaty of 1871, which for Prussian militarism would be only a festal preparation for hiding preparations for a fresh aggression.

"Seas Closed; Colonies Gone." "They know well that the seas are closed to them, that they have lost their colonies, and they know equally well that the allies rely less on the geographical position of their trenches than on the condition of their troops and their reserves, the capacity for resistance and offense, and the moral temperament of its people and their army."

"We are fighting not for honor alone, but for honor and life. To be or not to be—that is the painful problem imposed on the conscience of the great European nations."

"We are seeking entire restitution of our invaded provinces and those years ago for reparation for the violation of rights, the expense of France and her allies, and for the guarantee necessary for a definite safeguard of our national independence."

The French national holiday was celebrated throughout the country. The streets and boulevards of the capital were crowded and buildings were flag draped and buildings.

Day of Solemn Grandeur. With the struggle along the Somme and at Verdun at its height, the celebration took on the aspect of a solemn spectacle, the chief interest centering in the review by President Poincaré of French, British, Russian and Belgian troops and the presentation of Government testimonials to families of men who had fallen in battle.

New York, July 14.—Ever since the Chicago convention nominated Mr. Hughes there has been interest in the question whether the presidential candidate or the Old Guard would manage the campaign. An analysis of the committee recently announced by Chairman Wilcox is regarded by political observers to indicate that the fitness of Mr. Hughes and the others in the campaign.

The Old Guard, as nearly as the republican politicians can figure it, has succeeded in getting six of the seventeen members of the campaign committee. The progressives, it is conceded, have six members, one of the others is classed as "doubtful" and the other four are classed as Hughes men first and Old Guard Progressives afterward.

Under a recent ruling of the attorney general's office divorced women are not entitled to mothers' pensions. This affects one applicant from Beloit, resulting in the elimination of her name from the list.

Indications now are that the state department will make no formal announcement concerning the submarine, but that the treasury department will be advised to permit her to clear and sail from Baltimore whenever the captain desires to start on his return voyage.

Mr. Polk received the neutrality board's report just after he had returned to the White House to attend the cabinet meeting. He intimated the formal ruling by the department would be made only in case the submarine had been found to be warlike or liable to orders from American waters.

The neutrality board gave its advice after considering the report of navy and customs officers who made a complete examination of the Deutschland and concluded she not only was unarmed but could not be converted for submarine purposes without extensive structural changes.

Sailing Date Secret. Baltimore, July 14.—Silence continues as to the date of the departure of the Deutschland, which is expected to sail from Baltimore to the Cape and be conveyed to the pier day and night. SMOCKS ARE SHOCKS; BLAZER SWEATERS IN Rioting and Gay Colors Now Predominate—Striped Coats in Regimental Colors.

By Margaret Mason.

Same Fashion Knits a soldier's stocking. With yarn that's left she does her smocking.

New York, July 14.—Perhaps, along with the "Pigs Is Pigs" you think that "smocks is smocks." But you are wrong. Smocks are no longer smocks. They are socks.

There is a new hybrid race, flock or swarm of them that has come to light in a tiny little box of a shop on Fifth avenue. It offers hats also, but the smocks are the real curios.

They are not any of them what you would expect a well regulated smock to be. Each one is rather the embodiment of a wild flight of fancy, to put it mildly.

They start out all right and proper to linen, pongee, crepe or creponne. Then comes the funny business. Some of them are applied in a mad bit or miss riot of gay colored linen disks outline, stitched in black yarn.

Others are patched in crazy quilt fashion and feather stitched with yarn. Always there is yarn, yarn, yarn in some of every color, stitch or fashion.

Some of the more decorous smocks have cut out patterns on the creponne, baskets of flowers, birds or beaus applied at intervals around the skirt or on the pockets and yet others have yarn corseted scalloped around the neckline, cuffs and pockets. One of black satin is broken out so busily in crisscrossed and variegated applied disks that it looks like a Futurist companion piece to "A Nude Descending the Stairs."

There are also some new sweaters or blazers quite as new as the smocks, but not quite so weird. However, they are to shame for very stripedness both the zebra and the zing zing habitant.

These striped sweater coats worn with one-toned corduroy of linen skirts are a sort of vice versa flipflop of fashion from the one-toned sweaters worn with awning striped skirts that were so omnipresent at the beginning of the season.

Although the stripes are riotous in their color effects, they are not so without rhyme or reason. In any means. They are striped in regimental colors and each daughter of a regiment may express by her coat of many colors her regimental preference.

For the patriotic preparedness person there are the stripes of red, white and blue and her sentiments as well as her figure may thus be embodied in a deal more exclusive however, and express a preference not quite so wild and promiscuous. Worn with white skirts these gay striped sweaters there are also accompanying accessories of hats and parasols striped to match.

The expression: "Oh, she is that stripe" hereby gathers new meaning and the regimental sweater offers, as light modern method of wearing instead stripes.

Verily, no regiment would fail to present arms to such color bearers.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY PLANS GRAIN DISTRIBUTION IDEA FOR THIS AND NEXT YEAR

Vienna, July 14.—After lengthy conferences between the ministers of the interior and of agriculture for both the Austria-Hungary, a system for the equitable distribution of grain of all sorts throughout the monarchy for the year 1916-1917, beginning August 1, has been settled upon. It will be accompanied by a rise in prices.

Under the new plan the distribution will be direct and under no circumstances through associations, guilds or other bodies that in the past have been the equivalent of middlemen. The will be the only organization entitled to give mills orders on storage houses for the grain, and, when the grain has been milled, it must be turned over to the individual municipalities for distribution equitably among the people.

The rise in prices that is in prospect promises to be due to the mills rather than to the crops, which are breaking all around. The mills in Austria-Hungary want this year, six for milling the same quantity of grain, and will get it unless the price of the cities is made effective.

Reports from all over Austria-Hungary, especially along the lower Danube and from Bulgaria and Roumania, indicate that there will be a bumper crop. In sharp contrast to last year, the weather has been all most ideal with about the right proportion of sunshine and rain, and with little or no late frost to nip early planting. The same conditions, according to reports, prevail in Germany, which this year will not only have a big crop on her own territory but also will harvest an untold amount from the land in unoccupied regions—territory either that she did not occupy a year ago or that was taken too late for cultivation and planting.

Experts here believe that the Central Powers will be almost the only countries now at war to benefit from this year's big crops, this because of the loss of territory on the one hand, and the lack of workmen and laborers on the other. The crops in certain parts of Russia it is claimed are about 50 per cent behind normal, while France and England, which never did raise enough for themselves, will be at a disadvantage in importing a sufficient quantity by reason of the growing scarcity of tonnage and the high freight and insurance rates.

DOUBLE THE SIZE OF FRISCO BY TAKING IN COAST TOWNS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
San Francisco, July 14.—A plan to more than double the area of San Francisco is to be considered by a municipal committee here today and reported on not later than August 1.

It is an annexation project similar to the borough system in New York City. From San Francisco southward along what is known as the peninsula extends an almost uninterrupted line of small municipalities including Redwood City, San Mateo, Burlingame, Daly City, Menlo Park, South San Francisco and San Bruno. The plan is to bring them into the city by incorporating San Francisco and San Mateo counties.

Representative committees have been appointed to draft a bill for presentation to the legislature, authorizing the incorporation. This committee includes officials of the cities and towns involved. Better water and transportation are among the inducements offered.

THE TRUTH HURTS.

It is the truth that hurts the ultra progressive worse than any other sort of a weapon. The fact that a thousand men would journey from the uttermost parts of the state to be present at a gathering of republicans at Madison, paying their own expenses, many traveling for a day coming and going, to remain in Madison for a few hours, has so startled the progressives that they have to resort to a campaign of misrepresentation immediately.

Dispatches emanating from this element would make the public believe that there were but a few hundred delegates present when in truth the big hall was uncomfortably filled. It is true that when the vote on the various candidates for state office were taken the total number present was somewhat less, but this was due solely to the fact that hundreds who had been present during the earlier part of the session were forced to leave to catch trains for their homes.

The truth always hurts and the denouncement of the ultra progressive factionalism, the fact there was cut and dried program, no steam roller methods used to nominate a state ticket, that the governor did not take any part in the selection of his team-mates, at the big gathering so surprised the progressives they can hardly find any excuse for their pre-convention tales.

Jeffrey, Phillips, Cousins, Johnson, Harrington, Hicks made a strong sextette for the republicans of Wisconsin to tie to and the voters will find it to their advantage to see that they are nominated at the September primaries. Of course bitter attacks from the progressive press are to be expected. These will be met as the necessity arises, but meanwhile the voters will be fooled as they have been in the past by empty words and promises that were never kept.

COLLEGE GRADUATES.

Many jokes are cracked at the expense of the college graduate making his start in daily life and business. Traditionally he is called conceited. It is supposed to take a year or two to knock the nonsense out of him. One would think he went out job-hunting with diploma in hand, ready from the start to give the boss full information on how to run his affairs.

As a matter of fact, one of the most valuable features of a college course is that it does take so much nonsense out of a fellow. If he has rough corners, they don't stand the intimate jostling of the campus. He is laughed out of his conceits, stammered out of boorishness, and turned out a gentleman. The qualities grouped under the slang word "freshness" are hazed out of him. If he has self-assurance, it is simply that he has already done something worth while and feels confidence in his new effort.

Of course he has his weakness. College life has so much social and sporting pleasure, so much is done for the boy that the outside world must at first sight seem a very cold and workaday place. But he foresees and expects all that.

NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY.

It has become the fixed habit with many people to look through the newspaper advertisements before starting out to buy things. It is a great time-saver and saves both disappointment and embarrassment.

first so as to avoid fruitless calls and failure to buy. In that way, places that do not advertise are seldom bothered with.

An expert figures that there are 7,226,433 plays possible on the baseball diamond. From the time it takes some players to make up their minds, one would judge they had thoroughly canvassed these alternatives before throwing the ball.

Some of the men who refer to the national guard as "the soldiers" are the same ones who would not join the militia because they have long foreseen this call to the Mexican border.

Feeling the responsibility of co-operating with the government, some of our food manufacturers are no doubt making all possible haste to get ready their supplies of embalmed beef for the soldiers on the border.

Many of the colleges are not strong on boat races, but give the boys a dory and they will get up to the picnic grounds before the girls have the luncheon consumed.

President Wilson was driven from the golf course by a storm the other day, but in justice to him it must have been not so much the wet as the difficulty in seeing the ball.

It is claimed that steel common stock was originally all water, but even then Wall Street could not get enough to quench the thirst of the lambs.

Henry Ford's employees have to resign if they join the militia, and it is hoped that Henry does not allow their minds to be corrupted by reading newspapers that print any war news.

The big thermometer outside the drug store is theoretically to promote interest in weather study, and actually it is a part of scientific management of a soda fountain.

Carranza would no doubt be willing to have our troops remain, making only the moderate and temperate request that they load up with blank cartridges.

In spite of their intense patriotism the boys are not willing to go out a mile from any house and discharge their firecrackers.

Carranza threatens to attack the United States, but no one has suggested removing the capitol at Washington to a safer location.

It is claimed there is a shortage of work horses owing to the war, but it will take a shortage of touring cars to cause alarm in this country.

Some people's idea of studying current events is to read columns of stuff about the marriage of Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

It is suspected that the colonel's cough is caused by having to eat some of his own words.

It is feared that Maxim's noiseless cannon will never be a seller for July Fourth celebrations.

The best way to keep cool is to sit in the shade and watch dad hoe the garden.

Never Satisfied.
Or if the weather's hot
Some folks think that they have got
A call to cuss and scold.
The wind we all desire, you know,
Has never yet been made,
No matter if it's below
Or 50 in the shade.
The optimist is one who can
Sit down and twirl his thumbs,
And never knock the weather man,
But take it as it comes.

The Hickeyville Clarion.
Elmer Pringle says he struck a rail road eating house sandwich down to the junction the other day that had to be such a golden liar since he began canvassing for that crayon portrait concern that nobody takes any thing he says very seriously. Elmer dropped one of them railroad coffee cups the other day and broke an iron cuspidor, but the cup escaped as good as new.

He beats all how a woman will ruin a $50 gown and a $25 hat in a bargain counter rush to save a cent.

Amie Hilliker, our eminent horticulturist, has given up the job of trying to invent triangular peas that won't roll off the knife and is at work on a bureau that will jump up off the floor five feet automatically every time a fellow drops a collar button in the bedroom.

Advice to Wives.
If he persists in eating dinner in his shirt sleeves, one way to cure him is to go to the table with your hair down. This has been tried and has never failed.

If he positively will not get up first in the morning to light the kitchen fire, let him buy his breakfast downtown. This is a sure winner.

If he will stay out until after midnight, follow his example and forget to say where you have been. Others who have tried this remedy recommend it very highly.

If you want a $50 suit, pick out a $100 one and have it sent up to the house on approval. He will come across with the fifty if you will promise to send the other one back.

Signs of the Times.
There is a college professor in Connecticut who is living on 25 cents a week. Well, a whole lot of magazine poets are doing that and are not bragging about it either.

A western man was arrested for sobbing too loudly at a funeral. This could be easily prevented by leaving such persons out of the will.

While there have been 1,000,000 patents issued in this country, most of them, apparently, are for aeroplanes and mouse traps.

A Virginia court has decided that a poker chip is real money. This will also be true of the Saratoga chip if potatoes continue to rise in price.

CAUGHT ON MYSELF
Caught on the Fly.
The Order of the Garter has been conferred upon Sir Edward Gray, of England. Such a thing as that would be almost useless in this country, where some of the statesmen never think of wearing socks.

A good many women support their husbands on a statistical stage, but a great many more support them by teaching school or manureing.

BUCHANAN.

THE election of 1856 was the first contest between the two parties as they exist today. Buchanan, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, opposed John C. Fremont, Republican, of New York. The Republican party had just been created. Slavery was the principal issue, and signs of the approaching catastrophe were plainly visible. Buchanan was elected, receiving a popular vote of 1,838,169 to 1,341,264 for his opponent. Millard Fillmore of New York, who was the candidate of the American party, received 874,539 votes. J. C. Breckinridge, Democrat, of Kentucky, was chosen vice president.

I know, Al—but oh well, only one now, mind? When I say a thing it goes, that's up kind of a guy I am. "Hello, Bill! Hello, Mike! 'Eya, Ed! 'Eya, Max! This is on me boys, because I'm only going to stay for one of those birthday things today, and I'm due home early. Set 'em up, Pete, rickety for mine."

PICKLE PACKERS

PREDICT A PICKLE

Packers Strike Sour Note in Announcement That Crop This Year Will Be Small and Poor.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, July 14.—[If Peter Piper gets over in the cucumber patch and picks a peck of pickles while picking pickled peppers, these days he'll have to pay a fancy price for them.]

The National Pickle Packers' association met here today and announced to the world at large and to the pickles in the land, that there is a dearth of pickles in the land. As a result, the packers are a "trifle" soured on the universe.

They advocate the conservation of every single jar. Their cry is "Save the Dill!" and let the vinegar drip where it may."

The pickle men are here to figure out a way to save the day and provide for the shortage of stock. Bad pickle weather for the last two years is blamed for the short crops. Every gardener who values the esteem of these pickle men will grow great quantities of cucumbers from now on. The situation is being watched with exceeding great interest by co-eds at the University of Chicago, where the consumption of pickles and ice cream is said to exceed that of all other colleges. For the sake of the Great American Pickle, for the peace of mind of the Great American Co-Ed and for the sake of the great institution of that hyphenated institution of the German-American Dutch Lunch, let nothing hold up pickle growing.

FAIR BOARD WORKS ON FINAL DETAILS OF BIG EXPOSITION Programs of Daily Events Are Arranged—Ball Game Will Be Morning Feature.

Time is now drawing near for Janesville's big third annual fair which will be given this year, starting August 8th and lasting until the 11th, under the management of the Janesville Park association. The fair board held their regular weekly meeting last evening in the Gazette library. Definite plans pertaining to the daily programs were made last night, and a number of other important business matters passed upon.

One of the biggest attractions of the fair has been secured for one of the morning events. This will be a baseball game between Fort Atkinson and Whitewater. These two nines are members of a baseball league and at the present time they are tied for first place. The game will be played Wednesday morning at ten-thirty o'clock, August 9th. Two hundred dollars have been put up as a purse for the winning team. Both these teams have hundreds of followers and on that morning a record attendance is expected.

The fair management will be fully prepared for the crowds that will attend the ball game. Bleachers will be constructed and placed in front of the grand stand. This will provide ample seating room for the crowds during the ball game and horse races. Excellent train service to and from the surrounding towns will be provided for by the board. A special train starting from Watrous, running through Fort Atkinson has been secured. The board has also made arrangements to have one run from Burlington and one from Whitewater, starting at Badger Station. With these trains running on Wednesday of the fair, many people will be able to come to Janesville.

One interesting and surprising thing to a great many people would be the bill presented at the meeting last night for the ribbons to be made for the picnic fund. One hundred dollars has been set aside for ribbons and a total of one hundred and seven dollars will be used. The material is now in the hands of the printer, waiting to be made up.

A chance has been made in the ticket selling contest which is being conducted. Instead of offering the four prizes as was announced a short time ago, it has been decided by the board to have the tickets sold on the percentage basis. This will enable everyone to share in the prize money.

Persons wishing to get in line and sell tickets should get in touch with Secretary Harry O. Nowlan. Many inquiries are being received by the secretary relative to concessions. Some of the best attractions obtainable have been secured for the midway, and Janesville's 1916 fair promises to be the best ever held.

TOBACCO CROPS NOT INJURED BY DROUTH

Plants Are Yet in Good Condition as Result of Firm Rooting, But Rain Would Be Very Welcome.

With warm weather, especially adapted to growing, the tobacco crop is making splendid progress. The plants are stretching their roots down into the soil and are flourishing. At the present the crop needs rain.

themselves against a possible drouth, but with careful cultivation and constant stirring of the ground to conserve the moisture, a few more days of dry weather will not bring very much damage. If rain does not come, this stirring of the soil may become a necessity, and with the scarcity of farm labor at present, and the large acreage given over to tobacco by many growers this may be a difficult problem. But, with over two weeks of rainless weather, it seems as if the clouds must open soon.

The early set fields are spreading out and beginning to cover the ground fairly well. Those set later are doing well, too, and unless there is a long drouth, there will be an excellent crop when harvest time comes along.

HOME-COMING EVENT OF HISTORIC MOMENT

FIRST SETTLEMENT ON SITE OF JANESVILLE'S ORIGINAL PLAT. MADE 80 YEARS AGO.

CITY FOUNDED IN '36

Henry F. Jones Built His Log Cabin on Bank of Rock River Where Hayes Block Now Stands.

Janesville's home-coming which will be held this year in connection with the fair during the week of August 1 to 11 will be the celebration of the city's eightieth anniversary of its founding. It was in the spring of 1836 that Henry F. Jones, the man from whom this city gets its name, settled on a claim which embraced the original plat of the City of Janesville, and built a log cabin on the site of the present Hayes Block. Jones' cabin was a stopping place for travelers and the location was known as "Jones' Ferry."

It was in the same year, 1836, that Holmes ferry was established, midway between the bend in Rock river at the foot of South River street and the "Big Rock" in what is now known as Monterey.

It was also in January of this year that Seth B. St. John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel St. John, was born, the first white child born within the city limits of Janesville. Later in 1836 Mrs. St. John died, being the first death in the settlement. The second death, that of George Holmes, occurred in August.

Further historic facts with reference to the historic year include in June the arrival of the first steamboat from the Mississippi river, at St. John's rapids reaching Jones' ferry, stopping a few days to allow the settlers to enjoy an excursion. The boat proceeded on its way to Jefferson, and in a few days returned on its return trip. In the fall Henry F. Jones and Aaron Walker established a ferry at or near the present site of the Milwaukee street bridge.

From 1836 onward the tiny settlement grew rapidly until it became at the time of the admission of Wisconsin territory into the Union as a state in 1848, one of the important cities of the state.

It is thus appropriate that the big home-coming celebration should be scheduled for this year, the eightieth anniversary of important events in the city's history. The home-coming committee of the Commercial club is actively engaged in securing as large a list as possible of former Janesvillians in order to send them invitations to return to help celebrate and to enjoy the hospitality of old friends and kinsmen. A strong effort is being made to secure the names of all former residents as fast as they are received so that they may be made a part of the list and sent out the most cordial welcome. Every effort is being exerted to get as full a list as possible of former residents in this city, and to this end the assistance of every resident of Janesville is needed.

A special attempt will be made to secure the return of old-timers, men and women who lived in Janesville in the early days, who played a part in the city's early growth and development. To these will be accorded the place of honor at the home-coming, and for them there will be the most cordial welcome.

But there are hundreds of other former residents who will be pleased at this opportunity to return and greet old friends and acquaintances who have been widely scattered, but who will be back for the grand reunion. Janesville will be transformed for the week into one big family affair, the fathers and mothers, sisters and brothers will be gathered for a happy occasion to talk of old times, with old friends.

The city is making big plans for entertaining the home-comingers. The Janesville Fair will be in progress all during the week, and a series of dinners, banquets and receptions will be scheduled. In order to secure the largest possible return of former residents, it will be necessary to secure a complete list of the Commercial club so that the official invitations may be sent. Janesville residents are also asked to add their word of invitation and to throw open their homes as far as possible for the entertainment of guests. If you haven't sent in a list of former residents, now is the time to do it. The blank appearing in this paper should be filled out at once.

AGED CITIZEN DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Caleb T. Winslow, Resident of Janesville for Sixty-two Years Passes Away Today.

Caleb T. Winslow, an old and well respected citizen of Rock county, passed away this morning at his residence to eight at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Howard Hoover, 410 Jackson street. Mr. Winslow was born at Watertown, Saratoga county, New York, October 21, 1836, and at the age of eighteen years he came to Rock county and located in Janesville, where he has been a resident for the past sixty-two years. During the past nine years he has been confined to his home through illness and his death this morning came after a long period of patient suffering.

His father was born in Pittsfield, Mass., and was a descendant of the Pilgrims who came to America in the Mayflower. The family gained distinction in the New England states, one of its members having served as governor of Massachusetts and another as governor of Connecticut. Mr. Winslow was an expert machinist and railroad man. He was in the wagon building business in his home town in New York, while his brothers learned the jewelry trade. He was a member of the Masonic and Odd Fellows lodges in New York and was also a member of the Christ Episcopal church. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and daughter of this city and one son, Fred Winslow, who resides in Muscatine, Iowa. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. John McKeligue of the Christ church officiating. Interment will be made in the Oak Hill cemetery.

Mr. Winslow was beloved by all who came in contact with him and during his long illness has been a most patient sufferer.

MODERN ROMANY'S TRAVEL BY AUTO

Can Make Fifty as Easily as Ten Miles a Day and Camp by Roadside.—Women Still as Fascinating as Ever.

Rock county is the host to a band of genuine up-to-date right-to-the-minutes and daughters of Romany. With their bright scarves, their fortune telling, their fantastic costumes and their glib tongues they are visiting some of the smaller communities, but strange to say they are traveling by automobile and not by the old fashioned, gayly decorated sleeping cars.

The women and children are as numerous as ever. The men, just as swarthy and with ear rings, some of them brown complexions and shining teeth, many rings and decorations except for the autos, they are the same old gypsies of days gone by.

The women and children invade the towns the moment they arrive and beg and tell fortunes and talk as glibly as ever. Their language is just the same as of yore, but when they journey they sit back on upholstered auto cushions and view the scenery as does "My Lady" with her hired driver and three thousand dollar car.

It is an innovation in the gypsy world and one which will be watched with interest by the farmers, who always visit poultry and small pigs after a visit of these nomads of the road. Instead of a dozen miles now, fifty miles will be the day's run if need be, and long before the losses are noticed the whole tribe will be miles away in some other county's jurisdiction or perhaps across the state line.

Clinton was the first community visited by these new species of nomads. They seem to enjoy life with the same vim as of yore and not half the inconvenience. It is on continual auto picnic for them. Roadside camps are selected for convenience, not because of distance from the last camp and it is easy to pack up and be away should pursuit become too frequent.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1915, by Alfred W. McCann)

CHAPTER 84.

Glucose foods used in the form of jams, jellies, Table Syrup, Candies, Pie and Cake fillers, and other forms of sweets in connection with the impoverished breadstuffs, Griddle Cakes, Waffles, and the like of the poorer classes, contribute nothing to the stamina of the race—on the contrary, there is reason to believe that excessive indulgence in denatured sweets of any kind, such as refined Beet Sugar, Cane Sugar, Glucose, or Corn Syrup, is followed by serious injury to health.

Like patent flour, farina, white biscuits and crackers, polished rice, degerminated corn meal, corn flakes, corn grits, puffed barley, refined rice flour, bakers' white bread, the refined and demineralized sugars and hydrolyzed starches such as beet and cane sugar, glucose or corn syrup are injurious to the health of the people when the people remain in ignorance of the physiological laws that control the processes of nutrition.

Taken in small quantities occasionally any one of these foodstuffs consumed by itself cannot be seriously harmful, as their manufacturers and advertisers assert, particularly when consumed in the form of the well-to-do, including meats, vegetables, salads, fruits, cheese, milk, eggs and whole grain foods, all of which, in some measure, contain the essential substances so necessary to growth, development, and the normal maintenance of the body's functions.

But the fact is that all of these impoverished foodstuffs, when taken in generous combination with each other, thus reducing to the minimum of safety and only too frequently below that minimum the essential elements which are most essential to life.

The study of Sherman, Mettler and Sinclair, of 15,031 typical American meals, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture and referred to here on another page, indicates the lamentable shortage of these salts and colloids in the diet of the common people.

The use of corn starch, glucose or corn syrup as a filler in the cheapening of foodstuffs is just as much a fraud today as it ever was and the fact that it requires the addition of acids, flavors and essences to make such filled products saleable is just as true today as it has been for years.

Glucose as a filler is the symbol of denatured carbohydrate foods, and it is the excess of these denatured carbohydrates in the diet of the average American family which is the cause of many diseases, beginning in constipation and ending in anæmia, tuberculosis, cancer, and the disorders incident to impaired vitality or lowered resistance.

On Thursday, August 26, 1915, a prominent official of one of the large glucose manufacturing companies declared to me that he recognized the fact that a restricted diet of denatured foods, whether glucose appears among them or not, will develop many disorders in the body.

He said, "we are not going to give to the human animal the indispensable organic and inorganic mineral salts and colloids of the steep-water of our corn syrup factory. Our corn solids are the only ones of the corn and we have tons of it to dispose of."

every day. It can actually get a better price for these substances as fertilizers than we are now obtaining for them as cattle food," he said, "but we so recognize their importance as food that we have resisted the temptation to dispose of them as fertilizer, when they are so necessary to the animals that feed upon them."

According to his estimate, 80 per cent. of the glucose manufactured from corn is disposed of to bakers, confectioners, jam and jelly manufacturers and makers of other commercial foods and beverages.

In all these types of ready-made food the salts of the sugar cane are not restored through the glucose employed in their manufacture, and practically the only mineral salts in the pie cake, pudding or candy manufactured with glucose or granulated sugar are the salts introduced in the form of alum and other baking powders and preservatives, which are not the salts, in form or nature, required by the nutritional processes of the body.

Probably the most serious consideration in regard to these demineralized carbohydrate foods is the vast accumulation of evidence supporting the belief that the excessive ingestion of refined sugars and starches, so common in the diet of the American people, is a factor in the cause of diabetes which may account for the rapid increase of this disease.

Theodore C. Janeway, D.D., professor of the practice of medicine in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, declares: "The diabetes, the issues are in a state of partial or complete starvation though they may be bathed in lymph rich in glucose. The glucose, circulating in the blood and not utilized by the muscles and cells for food, accumulates until in excess of the normal upper limit of one part in one thousand."

"This excess of glucose in the blood is called hyperglycemia. With long standing hyperglycemia the kidneys lose their power to throw off the excess glucose and the degree of hyperglycemia tends to rise progressively. It is because the appetite is frequently gratified by carbohydrate foods (sugars and starches) that hyperglycemia is increased with no gain to the body in energy."

Inasmuch as the diabetic has lost his tolerance for sugars and starches he must be safeguarded from all influences known to diminish his tolerance. Among such influences, clinical experience teaches us plainly that hyperglycemia plays one of the chief roles.

"Failure to institute proper dietetic treatment of self-indulgence on the part of the patient so frequently leads to the development of severe diabetes in a previously mild case that it is obvious that overtaxing the weakened power for using sugars and starches is diminished by indulgence in sugars and starches."

The evidence that the mild indulgence which sets up the morbid condition, eventually expressing itself as diabetes, is vast and significant. The man or woman threatened with diabetes must be told to consider carefully the matter about to follow in the rapid increase of diabetes among the American people the time has arrived when the facts must be faced.

none ever will be taken against the bakers who use such forms of egg substitute.

I have inspected thousands of bakeries and estimate that seven of every ten employ egg powders, custard powders or egg substitutes.

They can be seen in five and ten pound cans in 70 per cent. of all the bakeries in the country.

Q. What is the food value of the egg in comparison with a other commonly used articles of diet?

A. The nutritive value of eggs is due chiefly to their protein, fat and salts. One egg yields about seventy calories of energy, which is equivalent to a half tumbler of whole milk or a little more than an ounce of fat meat.

The calorie doesn't mean anything because many foods which stand at the top of the calorie list will not in any manner sustain life, restore broken down tissue, or contribute a single atom to the internal secretions of the body.

Such high calorie foods and other substances as sugar, sugar, beet sugar, glucose, corn syrup, starch, potato starch, cornstarch, alcohol, kerosene, gasoline.

However, as scientific people are continually talking of calories we will use the word here as a sort of basis for comparison.

About nine eggs would have the same calorie value as one pound of medium fat steak or one pound of whole wheat bread.

The egg lends itself so readily to the art of the cook that it must always be considered a valuable form of food. The yolk of the egg contributes phosphorus, potassium, lime, iron, fluorine, and many other indispensable elements to the health of adult and child.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Q. Is the raw egg as good as the cooked egg?

A. It is generally believed that light, boiled eggs or codded eggs are more easily disposed of by the digestive system than raw eggs.

The invalid whose stomach requires rest may make better use of raw eggs than cooked eggs for the reason that raw eggs are apparently not digested in the stomach at all, passing out of it practically unchanged.

Burch relates observations made on a patient in whom, as the result of disease, an artificial opening had formed in the intestine a very short distance below the point at which it joins the stomach.

It was found that when raw egg was given by the mouth more than half of it passed through this opening unchanged.

This has been accounted for on the theory that a raw egg is such a bland fluid that it does not excite the secretion of the stomach juices nor the movement of the stomach wall.

Q. What are custard powders?

A. Custard powders are as a rule commercial substitutes for eggs sold by every supply house and retail baker. They consist principally of cornstarch, gum tragacanth, colored with tumeric or one of the eight dyes of the coal tar group, usually "yellow S."

Custard powders are woefully deficient in the mineral salts which the egg contributes to the diet and as such can be classified as sneaky forms of food robbery.

Their use is strictly prohibited by the sanitary code of the Health Department of New York City on the ground that they make foods appear better than they are. But no action has ever been taken and probably boys will be kept actively engaged in mental and physical pursuits and will be trained to serve their country if the need arises.

Whenever practical, a daily hike in full marching order will be made through the surrounding country.

The grove in which the camp is situated slopes down to the Thames at a point midway between New London and Norwich, where the river is sufficiently wide to permit all forms of sea instructions.

Elia Hall and Robert Leonard in "The Crippled Hand." The following is the story of the Beverly feature picture, "The Crippled Hand," starring Bob Leonard and Elia Hall which is shown at the theatre tonight.

There was a little girl who toiled in a department store and lived a lonely existence in her attic room. Every night she would look out of her window into the sky and imagine she was gazing into the court of fairyland. There was also a dreamer of the city who was also a dreamer of dreams. One day he missed his hand-storm to purchase one. The little girl waited upon him, and she admired the handsome man greatly.

"The rich man is induced by a popular prima donna to back her theatrical venture. The little girl is discharged from the store and seeks work elsewhere in vain. The rich man has conceived as a means of advertising his show he is backing the idea of placing a supper on exhibition and give employment to the girl who can wear it."

The little dreamer wanders past the theatre and her attention is attracted by two girls who had worked with her in the store, talking excitedly as they looked at a newspaper and then up at the sky. The little girl picks up the paper and sees the announcement of the competition. After a moment's hesitation, she goes in, slips on the slipper and, of course, promises engagement.

A man with an injured hand is waiting at the stage door. When the prima donna enters he thinks of the time when he was an accomplished violinist. The prima donna had apparently fallen violently in love with him, but later was unfaithful, and during a quarrel, the woman had cut his hand in such a manner that he was crippled for life.

The little girl, greatly fatigued, takes refuge in the prima donna's dressing room and goes to sleep. After the show several members of the company congregate in the prima donna's room. The prima donna tells the rich man to stay after the other ladies have gone, and when the little girl wakes up she sees the two.

The cripple has entered the theatre unseen, sneaks into the prima donna's room and is in the act of shooting her when the little girl rushes forward and defeats the bullet. There is a happy ending for the little girl who found her Prince at last, and there is reconciliation between the cripple and her former suitor.

A high class comedy feature will also be shown in connection with the big feature.

Triangle Feature Will Be Shown at the Beverly Saturday.

"The Stepping Stone," Triangle-Ince feature, shown at the Beverly Saturday, which Frank Keenan and Mary Boland are starred, is said to be a triumph in the art of photography, as well as direction.

Reginald Barker, who directed the production, under the supervision of the Thomas H. Ince, is said to have achieved the greatest success of his career, as far as artistic atmosphere of the production is concerned in making the big dramatic scenes of the play in big exterior settings and softens the picture by the deft use of lights and shadows.

By this method he has centered the interest about the characters of the play, and although giving the spectators an occasional view of the substantial properties that make up a millionaire's home, has allowed only a suggestion of the environment in which they appear.

In one scene, that of the dining room, in a pretentious home, Keenan, Miss Boland and Robert McKim, who plays the part of the egotistical and worthless husband, are shown seated at dinner. A great dining-room lamp throws its rays of light directly down, illuminating the tables and the three persons seated about it while the butler stands faintly outlined against the obscurity of the background.

In another scene, a tragedy has occurred. Instead of showing the gruesome details, a body is dimly discernible lying on the floor of a room that is obscured in darkness, just as it would be in real life. If a door were opened and the light from a brilliantly lighted room cast into a dark apartment.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

"The Sabie Curse," a powerful story of a fortune lost and won, has been chosen as the first of the productions featuring the famous actor, Richard Bennett, Miss Rhea Mitchell, whose work in recent Mutual pictures has won her wide acclaim as an emotional actress, has been selected as Mr. Bennett's leading woman.

"The Sabie Curse," based on the story of the same name by Aaron Hoffman, was chosen for Mr. Bennett's first release, because the part of John Dumont, in which he appears as a man whose life is a remarkable personality, is a role in which he has been seen in the role of "Marry Redmond," the hero of his first production, and love brings about the reformation of Dumont, after he has lost his fortune in Wall Street gambling. George Perlat, as "Herbert Crow," a financial wolf, has been cast for an unusually dramatic part, while Richard Bennett as "Nanette Devoe," society butterfly and adventuress, renders a difficult part.

FLORA DE HAVEN IN "THE UNDERCURRENTS" Director Otis Turner has completed the filming of "The Undercurrents," which stars Flora Parker De Haven as the daughter of a drunkard. She becomes a Salvation Army lassie, and through this medium finds a home as nurse for a rancher, who later proves to be the father of a young man she had known while at the Salvation Army home, and from whom she tried to escape because of his likeness for barleymcorn. To win the girl, the lad reforms, and she becomes the bride and daughter. The supporting cast includes Bertram Grassby, as the girl's father, Nanine Wright, Charles Mailer as the rancher, Jack Mulhall the sweetheart, Jack Lott, Ed Horn and Majorie Blinn.

"The Rebound" is a forthcoming story featuring Viola Smith, as the little crippled daughter of a woodsman. The father is forced to remain in hiding because he believes he is guilty of murder. In reality, the shot making of the production, under the supervision of the Thomas H. Ince, is said to have achieved the greatest success of his career, as far as artistic atmosphere of the production is concerned in making the big dramatic scenes of the play in big exterior settings and softens the picture by the deft use of lights and shadows.

New York, July 14.—Six modern Eves of unknown identity are determined to accompany the modern Adam, Joe Knowles, when he leaves his palatial apartment here today to plunge, nude, into the woods of the Adirondack hills on another of his famous back to nature jambourees. Knowles lives this way a month a year. When he goes in the only thing wrapped around him is his expression. When he comes out he is well fed on fruits, nuts and herbs, and clad in a deerskin suit.

Knowles didn't want the women with him so he chose one of them, Mrs. Emily Davis, whose husband was killed in the fighting in Northern France recently and who is an experienced woodswoman. He has charge of the six Eves after he has chosen a camp for them and left preliminary instructions in the art of finding edible roots and in the use of snares, traps and fish nets of grasses and fibre. This, of course, is unhairpin and non-mirrored sextette of Eves will live for a month in the secret

Ethel Laments Ralph's inability to see the 'funny side of her helplessness. Did you ever see anyone who had so much trouble with maida? asked Ethel as she seated herself in Nell's pleasant kitchen. "I keep finding things that I fear a woman has ruined when too drunk to know what she was doing. She was capable and all that, but when sober, I'll say that for her."

"What an awful thing to have her life ruined by drink," remarked Nell.

"I told you about finding her pockets stuffed with my fine handkerchiefs, didn't I? No? You see, her skirt was thrown over the back of a chair in her room and I dropped onto it and looted her back."

"What was up there?"

"While she was 'sick' I felt such a bunch between the shoulders and moved the skirt to make myself more comfortable in doing so I discovered that she had three pockets in the skirt all bulging as baseballs. I have become suspicious since my experience with that thieving Mrs. so I investigated and found she was wearing a lace jacket, some white silk gloves and a veil."

"I should have thought those bulgy pockets would have shown when she was 'sick'." Nell was looking into the oven to see how her baking was coming on.

"Oh, the pockets were low down where the skirt was full. They were evidently planned as convenient receptacles for trifles she fancied."

Nell shrugged her shoulders in light-hearted disgust.

"I'll put all the poor slaves to servants," said Nell, closing the oven door. "Don't you enjoy being alone, even if you do have to do a little?"

"I am too truthful to say that," do," laughed Ethel. "My improve."

vegetables and meat in specific quantities for each meal. Finally she was instructed to place a cork between the teeth and keep it there for half an hour after each meal, and to lie down upon a couch with the foot raised on four or five blocks.

The first week she gained three pounds. In two months she gained twenty pounds. In three months she was around telling all the neighbors how prayer and will power had restored her health.

The cork stopped the "cribbing." The woman had the not uncommon habit of swallowing air. She would swallow unconsciously every few seconds till she had stomachful, then belch the "gas" with great commotion. It is hard to swallow down hill with your mouth open. In fact, it is difficult to swallow down hill with your mouth open.

Sometimes, you see, it is better for a woman not to keep her mouth shut. Cribbing sometimes accompanies serious organic troubles, but in this case the doctor made sure there was no organic trouble.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Calamine Lotion for Itching Skin Disease.

QUESTION.—Several years ago my physician, Dr. [name], gave me a prescription for "calamine lotion" which contained something less than 1% of phenol. It was excellent as a relief for itching in various skin eruptions. Can you tell me what formula was, or something like it? I have lost the prescription.

ANSWER.—Powdered calamine and powdered zinc oxide, of each, one-half ounce; glycerin and borax, of each, one level teaspoonful; water, enough to fill an eight-ounce (half-pint) bottle. To this may be added one-half dram (one-half teaspoonful) of pure phenol (carbolic acid). Directions: Shake well before using; apply by dabbing on skin with fingers several times a day. If you can't obtain pure carbolic, use 2 ounces of the 5% carbolic solution ordinarily sold in place of two ounces of the lime water and the strength will be about 1% of phenol.

Household Hints

FROZEN DESSERTS.
Frozen Bananas.—Make a syrup by boiling one quart of water with two pounds of sugar for five minutes. Strain through fine sieve and stand aside to cool. Peel ripe bananas until you have two pounds of fruit. Cut into small dice with silver knife, then add juice of two lemons (or one lemon on one orange), four cups of sugar, fruit, let stand ten minutes and freeze. After it is thoroughly frozen cover freezer and let stand several hours to ripen.

Cherry Ice.—Dissolve one pound sugar in one pint boiling water. Boil five minutes. Remove scum and strain. In cold add one pint cherry juice which has been strained. Add whites of two eggs. Beat thoroughly and freeze.

REFRESHING DRINKS.
Milk Sherbet.—Boil for five minutes three cups of granulated sugar and one quart milk. Let cool. Freeze and when partly frozen add one cup lemon juice or any kind of flavor desired. Black raspberry juice is fine.

Maple Mousse.—One cup maple syrup, one pint cream, yolks of four eggs. Let syrup come to a boil. Beat the yolks and pour hot syrup on very slowly. When cold add whipped cream and freeze.

Grape Sherbet.—One quart juice of grapes, one lemon, one tablespoon gelatin dissolved in two tablespoons water, two cups sugar. Add sugar and gelatin to grape juice. Freeze.

Pineapple Sherbet.—One pint grated pineapple or one can pineapple, one cup sugar, juice one lemon. Fill up cup that has gelatin in it with boiling water, add pineapple mixture and freeze.

Orange Cordial.—Cut small slice from end of each orange. With a spoon remove pulp, leaving the shell whole. To the pulp of six oranges add juice of two lemons and one cup sugar. Let stand several hours, then press through a fine sieve. Half fill the orange shells with crushed ice, add the liquid and serve with straws.

Wild Cherry Wine.—One quart cherries crushed, four pounds sugar, four quarts boiling water, one-half pound wild cherry tree bark; put all in a jug, shake well, put the cork in but do not tighten. Keep in a warm place until it begins to work nicely; stand in the cellar for four or five weeks; then strain and bottle, putting the corks in loosely until six months old.

Grape Wine without Pulp.—To make grape wine without pulp, grapes, the following recipe is excellent: Two quarts ripe grapes (Concord preferred), two pounds sugar. Take a gallon jug, wash and sugar in it, then fill with water. Stand in sun until it ferments. The seeds will all work out and every day jug must be filled up with sweetened water. When all through working strain through fine cloth. Keeps nicely without sealing.

SUN-DRIED STRAWBERRIES.
One quart sugar, scant one-half pint water, one quart strawberries. Boil sugar and water until it bubbles, then add berries. Boil ten minutes. Spread on flat dishes and set in sun all day. Cover with netting. Put in jelly glasses and keep in dark place. The beautiful color is kept if berries are cooked in small quantities.

STRAWBERRY FLOATING ISLAND.
Crush one pint of strawberries and sweeten to taste; beat the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth and gradually add one-half cup powdered sugar and sufficient berries to color and flavor; then beat. Meanwhile prepare a boiled custard from three milk, yolks of the eggs, pinch of salt and two cups sugar. Pour into glass dish. Place a layer of crushed berries over custard and add meringue. Garnish with whole berries.

BERRY FLOATING.
Use any recipe for white layer cake. Beat the whites of one egg, one cup granulated sugar and one cup of berries mashed fine with egg-beater for fifteen minutes. This amount will swell and stiffen up so that there will be a great quantity to put between layers and on top of cake.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-one years old and a few weeks ago I met a young man my own age or a few years older. He works at the same place I do. We met at an office picnic and he danced with me several times. Now when we meet he seems very much pleased to see me. I do and he holds out his hand to shake hands. He is dark and I should very much like to meet him. I am a blond. I think we would make a very good couple. Do you think it would be all right for me to ask him to go to the city with me sometime? I am a stenographer and he is a nephew to my employer. I feel just as good as he is but I am a little bit afraid to ask him to come to me.

MISS W.
If he likes you he will want to come to see you. Don't ask him to come and then he will want to all the more. If you wait for him to ask to call he will not have occasion to think that you are too much interested in him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I want to tell you about a sick room I recently entered. The party at the time I entered deliberately raved to her friends about papers, as it was about time for their delivery. I found her in her mother's lounge—not up-to-date, but one of the three pieces she received from her mother who is dead.

An Indian blanket was under her, given to her by a far-away sister who was a mother to her in babyhood. The pillow a daughter had embroidered by a girl who had worked for her for years; it was heavy unfortunately because chills prevented putting on others that had been given her when she was sick. Economy was her life and so she saved the nightgowns, fearing that she could not replace them. The milk quilt was her mother's; the comforter her dear friend's. The flowers, with possibly one exception were from these dear to her. The old-fashioned colonial dish was given by her mother by her grandmother. Family group pictures, including her father and mother, were hung in front of her. An old steel engraving with a frame carved by her grandfather with a penknife also hung near her. Her grandfather, retired and well-to-do, was an elder in the church for forty years. He was refined and the kind we used to know. She was slightly contrary and wanted to stay in this room in place of her bed, which was fixed up with a pretty embroidered set made by her namesake niece.

To me the atmosphere was sacred. The doctor ordered no one to enter but friends. Critic slipped in and thought the bed should be decked in cold white linen bought at the store without any associations. She threw up the window and the neighbors wouldn't miss anything and had a cold-blooded nurse standing over her. Wouldn't it be better hereafter for family pictures to be on the wall and people of their own class and let plain country people take care of the little country people? L. B. E.
People who have made a study of sickness know that certain things encourage disease and that a change in sanitary conditions are necessary to recovery and health. A nurse who has made a study of caring for the sick knows more about it than the average person and her opinion should be respected. Of course health cannot be hoped for without plenty of fresh air. I think it is well for country people and everyone else to be open to new and improved methods. It is narrow to cling blindly to a thing just because it is old. Of course I see the human and pathetic side of the little invalid's love for the things that belonged to her dear ones and that her dear ones

WHAT is it that makes a soap desirable for the bath and toilet? Is it perfume? Or is it mildness, purity, quality?

The makers of Ivory Soap believe it is the last three. Ivory Soap is so mild, so pure and of such high quality that no perfume could improve its delightful natural odor.

It gives a rich, copious, bubbling lather, yet rinses easily. It cleanses perfectly and leaves the skin feeling as good as it looks.

BE SURE RAW FRUIT IS FIT FOR EATING

Pennsylvania Commissioner of Health Issues Warning Relative to Eating Fruits.

By Samuel G. Dixon, M. D. Pennsylvania's Commissioner of Health.

Fruits and vegetables are a necessary part of the diet during hot weather. Many of these are more appetizing when eaten raw. Berries, apples, radishes, onions and salads are popular and have their value as food.

There should be exercised in the preparation and serving of green foods, however, as they are subject to much handling between the garden and the table. In many market gardens the gathering of the produce is entrusted to a class of labor which is not any too cleanly; and care seldom is exercised to insure cleanliness. Food exposed for sale in markets also is often subject to indiscriminate handling by prospective purchasers. As a protection berries and foodstuffs eaten raw should be thoroughly washed before being served. It is much better to risk a slight impairment of the flavor than to chance eating unclean foods.

Nightsoil should not be used for fertilizing gardens from which the produce may be eaten raw. Water-cress should not be gathered from streams polluted by sewage. Many cases are on record where typhoid fever has resulted from failure to heed these points.

DISILLUSIONING MAUDE.

"It does exasperate me to see the way Maude worships that younger sister of hers. She seems to think she's got a fault in the way I do things. I've a good mind to tell her what I think of her."

"Why?"

"Why? To open her eyes? This with a fervor which she would doubtless have called righteous indignation."

"You mean that she does things that Maude wouldn't approve of?"

"Oh, not exactly, but she's such a selfish thing and so lazy, and Maude seems to think she is perfect."

"More 'righteous indignation' in both eyes and voice."

"If all the feelings that we justify to ourselves as righteous indignation could be analyzed, I wonder what elements could be found in them?"

The Joy of Relieving One's Mind. Envy, I suspect, would be one; another, intolerance; another, the enjoyment of relieving one's mind; another, the desire to have someone else do what she herself has chronicled as her own desire to disillusion Maude as to the younger sister's perfections. I wonder if Maude wishes to do this, or if she is afraid it came from nothing but the all except the desire to do the CRIBBING.

An optimist, skinnier, long-waisted, experience that the first session with Dr. Brady, 40 summers, had lost thirty pounds in two years, and looked it. She had been compelled to give up first one thing and then another, because everything she ate turned to gas, especially, she declared, eggs, cheese, fat meats, bread, butter and sugar. The "gas," she explained, pressed her heart. She was ravenously hungry all the time, dared not eat enough to satisfy her appetite. Her husband was one of those valiant men with lots of ideas about the kinds of food that are good and the kinds that don't.

Throughout the interview, and during several subsequent visits, the doctor served the patient closely. He made her swallow the gastric juice, analyzed the hydrochloric acid abundance, placed on reliance upon a ing belt, for psychic effect. She was given a strict diet, including hearty

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Perhaps It Was All the Change Father Had.

—Backache? —Rheumatism? —Run-down?

Those of us who are past middle age are prone to eat too much meat and in consequence deposit lime-salts in the arteries, veins and joints. We often suffer from twinges of rheumatism or lumbago, sometimes from gout, swollen hands or feet. There is no longer the slightest need of this, however, as the new prescription, "Anuric," is bound to give immediate results as it is many times more potent than lithia. In ridding the impoverished blood of its poisons by way of the kidneys, it can be obtained at almost any drug store, by simply asking for "Anuric" for kidneys or backache. It will overcome such conditions as rheumatism, dropsical swellings, cold extremities, scalding and burning urine and sleeplessness due to constant arising from bed at night. Advertisement.

Wants to Know Why.

Why is it that a careworn seven-year-old boy can drop a half-burned match in an alley and burn up all the barns in the block, while an abled-bodied man has to use up a box of matches to get a wood fire started in a heater that has draft enough to draw all the furniture up the stovepipe?—Lebanon Times.

Easy to Tell the Age.

You can usually tell approximately the age of the farmer by what he orders at the soda fountain. If he's under twenty-one, he'll take strawberry; if he's between twenty-one and thirty-five, he'll take lemon. If he's over thirty-five, he won't be there.—Kansas City Star.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE, RELIABLE WAY.

People who are over-burdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stout people have to bear.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise, here is a test worth trying. Spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from Smith Drug Co. or any good druggist a box of oil of korelin capsules; take one after each meal and before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korelin is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take and helps digestion. Even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, footsteps become lighter, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being. Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial. Advertisement.

Woman Endorses National Tonic

Mrs. Geo. Vetter Says Use of Tonic Has Been of Much Benefit.

Mrs. George T. Vetter, a prominent Racine woman is enthusiastically endorsing Tonic, the national tonic, these days. Here is her recent statement:

"I have always enjoyed good health until recently when I became subject to attacks of indigestion and sour stomach, anything I ate, even just a little bread and butter, would ferment in my stomach and cause me discomfort. It was most annoying and I tried in many ways to get better. Finally I saw a Tonic testimonial in the paper and made up my mind to use the medicine. After using one-half bottle I found that I need not be afraid to eat anything. I have not had sour stomach in two weeks. Tonic has proven so excellent for me that I am glad to endorse it to others who may get the same good results."

Tonic has won a place in every household. Its wonderful reconstructive properties make it indispensable in the treatment of stomach, liver and kidney ailments.

Tonic can be obtained here from Smith's Drug Store, 14 West Milwaukee St.

The man addressed made a failure of a smile. "My wife's in that, but I didn't want to go," he muttered. "I ain't a member," Pole sat down, taking his knife from his pocket and beginning to cut a straight sprout of hickory growing at his feet.

"I'm a backslider," he laughed. "I've slid an' slid down grade, Abe, till it'd take a railroad derrick to hoist me to a seat among the favored. There is so many sad things in the world that it takes the heart out of a fellow. I'm worried right now. I've got a friend, Paul Chester—you know 'im, I reckon, Abe? He's a good hearted feller, but he was runnin' a blind tiger in town, an' now the pore devil is in jail. He sent for me, an' I went to see 'im. I expected to find 'im down in the mouth, but la me, he didn't care so much for what happened to 'im as he did for some'n else. It seems that his cage is right across from the one Howard Tinsley's in, an' the sight of Howard's awful condition made 'im think his own case wasn't nothin' to compare to it. Paul couldn't talk of nothing but Howard. I took a peep at Howard through the bars, an' I certainly understood what Paul meant. He's wasted away to a bare shadow, an' it looks like all faith in man an' God has left 'im."

Pole paused, and Fulton suddenly fixed an unbreakable stare on him. "What do you think about it?" he asked, his thick lip hanging loosely, his big right hand clenching his knee. Pole blinked visibly.

"Me? Well, it's like this, Abe: You see, I've heard so many conflictin' reports that I hardly know what to believe. The truth is, I'm so sorry for Howard an' his mammy an' fer that nice gal that's workin' in his place, goin' to see 'im every day an' prayin' fer 'im so hard that well, I ain't inclined to take his word, though I've known 'im since he was a little tot, an' I ain't never known 'im to lie. I ain't done no particular good in the world—I've been a bad egg from the start, an' an'—well, you'll laugh, I reckon, at the idea, but considerin' all that lies in front of Howard, I'll be darned if I wouldn't be willin' to take his place an' let 'im go free."

The slinging was beginning under the shed. A verse was sung, and the minister began to intone another in a clear, mellow voice. Abe was now staring at the ground, and Pole, closely watching him from the corner of his eyes, saw a quiver pass over him. Pole decided that his prompt departure now would strengthen the effect of his words, so he yawned carelessly and rose. "Well, I'll be gone," he said.

"Hold on; wait a minute!" Fulton turned suddenly. Pole sat down again on the log.

"What is it, Abe?" he asked. "I just wanted to ask a question," Fulton faltered. "I don't want to go to any of them in that, because I know what they would say, but I—I want to ask you. Is all that singin' an' prayin' in that pore poppycock, or do they mean it?"

"I'll tell you, Abe, it's like this, I reckon," Pole said finally. "Some of 'em are dead in earnest—that's done wrong an' know it, but I think all—even down to the youngest—git a benefit in some shape or other."

"Then you think—Abe's somnolent eyes seemed to burn from fires of agony and indecision—that that really is such a thing as a God?"

"Oh, yes; oh, yes!" Pole felt himself on firmer ground. "Scripture says, 'The fool hath said in his heart that there ain't no God.' Oh, yes, that's one, Abe, but I begin to believe as old Abner Daniel does, that he ain't exactly the sort of a God that ever did tell anybody precisely how many nails to drive in the side of a house or dicker with the devil over the best way to tautailize a feller as good as old Job was. Yes, that's a God, an', whatever he is, he is all right. You can depend upon that. Did you ever listen to old Ab talk? Well, he's a good man."

"That's one thing I want to ask you about," Abe suddenly leaped forward. It was as if he almost held his breath in anxiety. "You've knowed 'im a long time an' had dealin' with 'im. Do you think he would give a man good advice, a—a man in troubl—a man bothered in his mind over anything—business or any private matter?" Pole's eyes flashed against his will. He pretended to reflect, then he said: "That ain't a shadow of a doubt about old Abe's heart bein' right, Abe. Yes, he's a good man. Not many round here know 'im as well as I do. He'd saw off his right arm any day to help a person in distress, an', la me, how he hates to see a friend take a wrong step."

"But he's sorter tricky, ain't he?" Fulton asked.

"He may be about little triflin' matters, Abe, such as boss tradin' or playin' a harmless joke, but not about big, serious matters. La me, that old man knows me like a book! He's traveled all the way to Atlanta more'n once to get me out of lock in a spree. He's bought new clothes for me an' fetched me back home an' never told a soul."

"Then you'd take his advice about a very serious matter?" Abe muttered.

"You bet I would," Pole answered promptly, "especially if it concerned right or wrong." Pole rose again. The minister was beginning to preach. "So long, Abe," he smiled. "I reckon I'll listen to that sermon."

"Wait a minute," Fulton raised his shadowy eyes with the timidity of a frightened child. "I want to see Abner Daniel today—this mornin'—right now, ef—ef I kin."

"All right. I know what he is," Skirting the shed to reach the spot where he had left Abner, Pole saw him seated on the tongue of a wagon whittling a stick.

"Huh!" Abner grunted. "You certainly took long enough. Did you go home to dinner with 'im?"

"He's primed an' cocked ready to dump the whole thing," Pole smiled broadly. "They say of you want to catch a bird fust sprinkle salt on his tail an' I've got Abe hivered from head to foot. He said fer me to send you to 'im right off, an' ef I was you I'd not waste any time."

Abner's face beamed as he stood up and brushed the shavings from his trousers. "I know the sort Abe is," he said. "An' we must strike while the iron is hot. I'll tell you what you kin do fer me, Pole. I want you to go to my stable an' hitch up my boss an' buggy an' drive it this way as quick as you kin. The sheriff is under the shed, but he ain't got nothin' to ride in, an' he'll want to take our man to town of this thing goes through. Dill will be powerful astonished, but he will get when he catches on."

"All right," Pole answered. Abner went to where Fulton sat. "I met Pole Baker round 'tother side the shed," Abner began. "He said you wanted to see me, Abe."

"That ain't but one thing I want to see you about. You can't browbeat me an' dog my steps like you've been doin'. You don't wear no detective's ludge nor carry no policeman's club that I ever seed. Ef you think I've done a certain thing you kin think it all you want to, but—but you hain't got a speck o' proof, an' the way you abused me 'tother night has got to stop."

Abner's face, while full of disappointment, was firm. "Did you send Pole Baker to me to say this?" he inquired.

"Yes," muttered Abe. "That's a lie, Abe Fulton, an' you know it."

"You—you dare?" Fulton drew himself up straight and clinched his fist as if for a fight.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Conclusion.

"STOP, Abe!" old Abner commanded sternly. "Listen to me. You hain't competent to manage fer yoreself in this thing. You are like a straw betwixt two whirlwinds. One second you are driven by the right force, an', the next you fall into the wrong. You are warin' betwixt the sunlight of God an' the darkness of the devil's abode. You can't hold out, an' you know it. You see what you are sufferin' now. Do you think it wouldn't be wuss ef you was to allow Howard Tinsley to shoulder what you done? You've got this sin in you. It is wuss'n the most terrible disease. Your yeller green face shows it. It leaks like sweat out o' the pores of yore skin. You look like a damned creature walkin' about to show an' rebellion to God an' his law. Ef you will jest put yoreself in God's care in this thing a sweet peace will fall on you as light as dew, and you will be filled with a joy that you never dreamt of."

Abner paused. Fulton's whole body seemed to have wilted. He swayed back and forth in the wind of indecision. Then something quite unexpected happened. A woman approached. It was Mrs. Fulton. She sat down on the log close to her husband. She put a thin, toll hardened hand on his knee. No one spoke. Suddenly Abner thought of a desperate course to pursue.

"I've been tryin' to prove to Abe, Mrs. Fulton, that I'm his friend," he began, but to his surprise she interrupted him.

"I know it. I watched you from the shed. I seed you come an' set down by 'im, an' knowed what you wanted. I know Abe's trouble. I've knowed it all along, an' I've tried to git 'im to do right. I love 'im, but I can't keep on livin' with 'im like it is now, Mr. Daniel. He sees things in the dark an' screams out in terror. It is killin' me. I can't see the innocent suffer nother. I'd be takin' part of it did. The Lord will help Abe ef he will turn to 'im. He killed Craig. He won't deny it to me, but he done it out o' pity fer pore Susy. I don't believe the law will be hard with 'im when the whole truth is out. Behn a pore man, Abe is afraid that havin' no money to hire a lawyer, he won't git justice, but—"

"That needn't bother 'im, Mrs. Fulton," Abner said gently. "I'm a man o' my word, an' I'll pledge every cent I got to his defense. I'll do that, an', moreover, I'll turn the influence o' my paper to him. I'll show the public how the matter stands."

"Oh, Abe, Abe, listen!" the woman cried. "You know I wouldn't advise you wrong. You must give in!"

"I'll do it," the two listeners heard Abe say under his breath. "I'm willin'. What do you want me to do? I won't hold back no longer."

"Dill's under the shed," Abner suggested. "He's the one fer you to go with, Abe. He's a good feller an' will treat you right. Stay here with yore wife an' I'll go git 'im. My boss an' buggy is down the road a piece, an' you an' 'im kin ride away before the meetin' is over."

"All right—git 'im. I won't back down ag'in, Mr. Daniel. Git 'im. I'll wait here with my wife."

Ten minutes later Abner stood at the end of the shed waiting for Mary. Presently he saw her in a little group gathered about the minister at the platform. Suddenly she turned and came down the straw strewn aisle. Her sweet face bore traces of tears, which had dried on her cheeks. She smiled faintly when she reached Abner and turned away with him.

Abner caught her arm. He was half afraid to tell her his good news with out preparation. Presently he swept his long arm slowly in the direction of the town and cleared his throat.

"Look at the road down by the creek," he said. "Don't you see a cloud there?"

"I see it," she said. "It's a cloud, an' it looks ugly ag'in the blue sky an' white clouds on sech a purty, still day, don't it?"

She said nothing.

"Yes, it's a ugly sight," Abner went on, "in all the green an' blue about it, an' yit right in its middle is some'n good, some'n splendid, some'n that will make you happier 'n you ever was in yore life. Can you guess what it is, Mary?"

"No," she said, wonderingly.

"It's Jeff Dill in my buggy takin' Abe Fulton to jail. He's confessed the whole thing. Howard will come back in the buggy after awhile, an' we'll all spend the evenin' together."

The young people of Darley, led by Frank Raymond, were giving a dance to Mary and Howard at the old Johnston House. Not only were all the younger set present, but old gentlemen and ladies who had long since given up such amusements insisted upon going, that they might do honor to the engagement was known to all. Conspicuous among the participants was Abner Daniel, who had never appeared to be so happy.

While the grand march was taking place Abner slipped into the office of the hotel, where Sugart, in evening clothes and wearing a buttonhole bouquet, stood behind the counter.

"I thought I seed Pole Baker in here a minute ago," Abner said anxiously. "What is he?"

"He's just gone to his horse," Sugart replied affably. "He said he was going out home."

Hurrying out at the door to a hitching rack at the side of the house, Abner saw his friend about to mount his horse.

"Hey, hold on, thar!" Abner cried. "You ain't a-goin' to speak away from here like this?"

The efficiency seems to be partly evenly split up at Verdun. A woman allus smiles when she says she's awfully sorry.

Dinner Stories

"The late Admiral Evans had a quick, bluff wit," said Surgeon General William C. Braisted, U. S. N.

"The admiral once was taken through the Vanderbilt stables in New York. The stable manager showed him walls and floors of pale, translucent thing, marble drinking troughs, manglers of Circassian wainut, solid silver fittings and so forth.

"Do you find anything lacking, admiral?" the manager said, proudly, at the end.

"Nothing," the admiral replied, "nothing except a leather upholstered sofa for each horse."

A company of very new soldiers were out on a wide heath, practicing the art of taking cover. The officer in charge of his men:

"Get down behind that hillock there," he ordered, sternly, "and, mind, not a move or a sound!"

A few minutes later he looked around, and to his despair observed something wriggling behind the small mound. Even as he watched, the movements became more frantic.

"I say, you, there!" he shouted, angrily, "do you know you are giving our position away to the enemy?"

"Yes, sir," said the recruit, in a voice of cool desperation, "and do you know that this is an art-hill?"

In a certain home recently visited by the stork there is a child of inquiring mind. When he first saw the new arrival he exclaimed:

"It hasn't any teeth! It hasn't any hair!"

Then, observing that his criticism had no effect upon the family, he added in disgust: "Somebody has done us! It's an old baby!"

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Safe Home Remedy for Skin-Troubles

Eczema, ringworm, and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need never hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it constantly for over twenty years.

Generally, resinol stops itching at once, and heals the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's.

Resinol Soap is not only unusually cleansing and softening, but its regular use gives to the skin and hair that natural beauty of perfect health which cosmetics can only imitate.

AMERICAN DERBY REVIVED SUNDAY IN WINDY CITY

Old Hawthorne Track Sunday Afternoon Will Witness Revival of Great American Classic.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Chicago, July 14.—Racing fans of the whole country as well as those of Chicago are reported to be excited over the redemption of thoroughbred racing here which begins tomorrow at the old Hawthorne track with a renewal of the famous American derby as the feature of the opening day. It will be the first thoroughbred racing here since 1904. Heartiest support has been accorded the revival by some of the most prominent horse lovers and other sportsmen in the United States, who have signified their interest by naming some of the best horses in the country for the Derby and by engaging boxes at the track. Among the well known men interested are:

Foxhall P. Keene, Valentine Crane, Joseph Leiter, Laurence Armons, August Belmont and T. C. Bradley. Strict precautions will be taken by promoters of the meet with the cooperation of the sheriff of Cook county. The latter has promised to have a force of deputies on hand to work with a squad of private detectives enforcing the state laws. The meet, according to the promoters, is to be an attempt to restore racing here without the so-called evils.

A purse of $10,000 has been hung up for the Derby. This compares not unfavorably under the circumstances, with the old stakes, though in 1893 the value was $49,500 and that of the last Derby, in 1904, $26,825. The chance of tomorrow's race will be a mile and a sixteenth.

SOX AND MACKMEN START SERIES TODAY

Rain Halts Last Games at Boston.—Won But Three of Nine Games on Trip Thus Far.

Rain yesterday stopped the Sox at Boston and neither team evidenced any displeasure, especially the Sox. Today they are at Philadelphia, where they have four games to be played in five days, Sunday being a day of rest for them this week. The Sox took two of the six games played in three days at Boston. Both teams are now hard up for pitchers, having used practically every man on the staff during three twin bills.

After leaving Philadelphia the Sox will move over to Washington for six games in four days. From there they will drop in to New York for a two-day session before returning home. To make the trip a success the Sox will have to show some great baseball for the remainder of the jaunt. So far they have dropped six games of the nine played and have been left to play. In order to finish with the greater share of the games to their victory column the Sox will have to win at least eight of the remaining games.

RACE DRIVERS OBJECTING TO OMAHA'S BOARD TRACK; SUNBEAM TEAM WITHDRAWS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Omaha, Neb., July 14.—Although it is believed to be one of the fastest tracks in the world, several of the famous auto drivers entered in the Omaha speedway races here today object to the fact that it is built of boards. None of the drivers refused to race on it, however, except Josef Christiansen and Frank Galvin, the Sunbeam team, and they were expected to capitulate before the starter's pistol sounded.

Estimates early today placed the probable attendance at 50,000 persons. Eddie Rickenbacker, the winner last year, will have no easy victory this time. He ran away from the field last year, averaging 91.87 miles an hour. He will battle today with the 50 and 150 mile runs. Experts have estimated that the time will top the 100 mile mark.

TROUT FISHING POOR; HEAVY RAINS ARE CAUSE.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Pembsic, Wis., July 14.—Because of high water caused by the exceptionally heavy rains of last month trout fishing in northern Wisconsin streams has not been up to its usual standard so far this season.

Most of the streams have been out of their banks. The water has been so high that it was almost impossible to wade, making it necessary to fish from the banks.

ZIM'S BAT UPSETS PHILLIES IN NINTH

Chicago Captain Stages Real Fiction Stunt as He Draws Homer in Last, Winning Game.

Heinie Zimmerman's home run in the last of the ninth, with two men out, two strikes called on him, and the count 5 to 4 against the Cubs, pulled the unlucky Bruins out of a hole yesterday and sent a little ray of sunshine into the Chicago camp when Heinie dashed home behind the man he had driven in. Philadelphia was the goat. Zim's smash cleared the field, barriers, screen and all. It pulled the Cubs out of the rut and won the game. Jim Vaughn and Chief Bender battled superbly for eight innings, with the Chicago slab veteran having the edge on the easterner.

HUNDRED THOUSAND LICENSES FOR BADGER AUTO OWNERS.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 14.—More than 100,000 auto licenses have been issued by the secretary of state this year. It is predicted that the total number for the year will be close to 115,000. H. E. Nichols of Madison drew No. 100,000 while W. W. Steele of Lodi has had a reservation for several months for 99,999. A total of about $55,000 has been received by the state for auto, motorcycle and dealers' licenses during the fiscal year ending July 1. The cost of plates and administration, amounting to about $10,000, will be deducted from this amount and the remainder divided between the state and counties. The counties' share is 75 per cent and the remaining 25 per cent goes to the state highway fund. All money is used in building roads and the counties are obliged to spend their share of the fund on county highways.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

Jim Corbett in the heyday of his fighting career could be as personable about small things as the most temperamental prima donna. Though the most amiable sort of person in the world when fighting wasn't concerned, he became cranky as the decade at the Central league out the season in two and announced that the last half of the season would be another pennant race with the teams starting all over. The chief reason for the move is said to be the large number of postponed games—forty-two altogether—which burdened the teams so heavily with extra work that it was a schedule. The change is also thought to be a means of producing a closer race for the rag through the last part of the season. The Dayton Vets had carried the lead so easily that the fans were pretty well bored with it.

Something new in the way of a baseball pennant race occurred recently when President Dickerson of the Central league out the season in two and announced that the last half of the season would be another pennant race with the teams starting all over. The chief reason for the move is said to be the large number of postponed games—forty-two altogether—which burdened the teams so heavily with extra work that it was a schedule. The change is also thought to be a means of producing a closer race for the rag through the last part of the season. The Dayton Vets had carried the lead so easily that the fans were pretty well bored with it.

Since Frank Moran's recent poor showing against Jack Dillon there has been talk in the east of appointing a physical director by the boxing commission to examine the condition of fighters forty-eight hours before they step in a ring. The cases are not infrequent when a fighter goes into an important fight in no condition at all.

Big Relay Race in June Was First Held In State

FOUR GROUPS OF COUNTY Y. M. C. A. ORGANIZATION TAKING PART IN FIRST ANNUAL ROCK COUNTY RELAY RACE HELD JUNE 28TH.

Rock county's first annual Y. M. C. A. relay race, held June 28th of this year, was the first race of its kind ever held in the state of Wisconsin. Four teams were entered from the following centers: Milton Junction, Rock, Prairie, Orfordville, and Shopshire. Such was the interest shown by the teams entered this year that the race will become an annual affair for the Rock county Y. M. C. A. groups.

The committee in charge of the race was composed of the following men:

P. J. McFarland, R. J. Madden, Rock Prairie, Rev. A. J. Kvale, Harry S. Verthorn, Orfordville; D. Hinkley, S. M. Warner, Milton Junction; R. K. Overton, Mr. Cuddeback, Shopshire; L. A. Markham, secretary of the Rock county Y. M. C. A., and H. S. Love, and Shopshire.

Next year the committee have hopes that all the Y. M. C. A. groups in the county will take part in the race. This year fifty-two boys took part, and in the future if more groups join the total number running will go beyond the two hundred mark.

MILTON JUNCTION GROUP WINNERS OF FIRST RACE.

to do his best. Most promoters and fans agree that the idea is worth at least a thorough trial.

In spite of the denials of rumors that Ty Cobb will quit the game, it looks at times as though the temperamental Georgian was pretty thoroughly sick of the business. He has never been able to stand any sort of criticism and this season with his trouble in hitting a real stride he has been unusually sensitive about it. Ty knows that nothing can stop the fans from "riding him" if he wants to do it and more than once he has told his teammates and others that he thought he was being "ridiculed" and that he should quit. Hugh Jennings has said that he would not blame Cobb if he did want to quit, as the fans have treated him so roughly. "A player is willing to stand reasonable criticism," says Hugh, "but it isn't right that he should be so outrageously insulted just because he fails to make a hit every time."

Jack Dillon and Bat Levinsky are building up a record for frequent encounters that will soon approach the Langford-Jeanette fights, all of which totaled fourteen. But it's very unlikely that they will ever come near the Willie Hoppe-George Sutton number, which is greater than anyone seems to know.

Ad Wolgast seems to have fouled his opponent in all of the last four fights he has fought and every time he has pulled the rough stuff after he has begun to get a decisive beating. His last one was in the fight with Freddie Welsh at Denver. Freddie was beating Ad all about the arena when the latter—Ad, not the horse—slipped over the rough one. Maybe it's just about time for Ad to quit the game.

It appears that Ireland is not now so well represented in the fight game as she was in earlier days. The He-brew boys are coming forward and just at present three of the best are Benny Leonard, Charlie White, and Ted Lewis. Jack Britton and Johnny Kilbane are perhaps the only two considerable Irishmen now active.

Shedd, salesman for a Cleveland firm, bought some carrier pigeons which have done so well that his firm has just instituted a statewide system of carrier pigeon communication among all its salesmen.

STARTED AS TELEGRAPHER;
NOW ROADS PRESIDENT.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Shawano, Wis., July 14.—John S. Jones, who has recently assumed the duties of the president of the Wisconsin & Northern railroad, started his "reading" career as a telegraph operator. Later he worked as conductor, trainmaster, assistant superintendent and director of the road. The railroad was built for a short distance but the work was held up by a controversy between the city and the Manitowoc & Northern Traction company over the moving of interurban tracks. A compromise has been reached which will allow the construction work to continue.

TOWN LINE

Town Line, July 12.—Miss Cora Wilcox of Janesville and sister, Mrs. Minnie Pettis Lawrence of Dolan, South Dakota, called on old Town Line Friends Saturday. This is Mrs. Lawrence's first visit to her old home for forty years, and with the exception of one family she found all the old neighbors and friends gone.

MOST REPRIVED MURDERER TO BE HANGED TODAY.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Murphyboro, Ill., July 14.—Unless Elliott Scott, Illinois' most reviled murderer, is again reprieved today he stands no chance to make good his brag, that he'll never hang for the murder of his sister-in-law at Carbon. Scott, a native of Illinois, was hanged five times. He was hanged to die on the gallows here this morning.

The revivings were caused by a two-day dumber, head-deer performance between Governor Dunning and Sheriff White of Jackson county. The Governor, not wishing undue publicity given the hanging, asks Jackson how any business he's going to have to say Scott, saving Jackson replies that he'll comply with the law and have enough witnesses to preserve order. Then the Governor reprieves Scott and the performance is repeated.

MEN OF MILLIONS FIND WAY TO DODGE PAYING INCOME TAX.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, July 14.—The rich, it was learned here today, have found a way to dodge paying their income tax. The poor pay it for them. The treasury department has information that well to do persons will not buy stocks and bonds unless the corporation they buy them from contracts to pay the income tax on them.

The corporation selling the stocks or bonds agrees to do this, then just adds the income tax to the retail price of its goods to the public. Thus the $10, 20 or $50 a week citizen when he buys an article of wearing apparel, food, tools, instruments, machinery or what not, may be paying the income tax of his plutocratic neighbor.

MADE A GREAT DISCOVERY

Man Found Something He Possessed a Long Time, but Never Had Tried to Use.

"I say, old chap, why have you deserted the club?"

"To tell the truth, dear boy, I've been so blooming busy that, with the exception of an occasional tramp or two for my health, I've hardly left the house."

"Oh, I say, anything new?"

"Tremendously new to me, old chap.
Several weeks ago I very unexpectedly ran across it—an old machine I've owned a good many years and never paid much attention to. Upon examination the thing is so monstrous-ly wonderful, you know, that it has impelled me in open-mouthed consternation. I can't actually take it in, and, bless me, I can't understand why I've so long ignored its possibilities—just accepted it, you know, this wonderful inheritance of my ancestors, as something very natural and quite ordinary."

"Hope you've struck a money-maker, old man!"

"I believe I have, you know, and that's one of the remarkable parts about my discovery. Can you conceive old chap, of my having never seen its possibilities? It's merely a piece of machinery, mind you, and let me tell you some of the things it can do! With a turn from me I can make it see or hear or speak or walk or dance or write or telephone! Why, I can, and with no effort at all, make it breathe!"

"Oh, I say! What is the blooming thing, old chap?"

"It's my blooming self, old top, and I'm going to put it to work and make a fortune."—Judge.

BOARD OF CONTROL REPORTS A SURPLUS FOR STATE SCHOOLS

Of Eleven Institutions But Five Show
Deficit—School for Blind
Has Lost.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., July 14.—Statements that public charges are being neglected and that the state faces an embarrassing situation because of reduced appropriations made by the last legislature, were refuted in fact and figures when the emergency board met in the executive office Thursday afternoon.

Returns for the fiscal year ending on June 30, figures for which were reviewed Thursday for the first time, showed a net surplus of $17,149.57. Progressives in the legislature who fought the economy program of the Philipp administration were disposed to appropriate to the state board of control $400,000 more than President James O. Davidson said was necessary.

Judgment Was Sound.
Returns received by the emergency board proved conclusively that President Davidson was sound in his judgment, and that had it not been for the stand of the administration the projected surplus would have been $400,000 of the taxpayers' money which well informed persons knew was unnecessary.

In addition to handling the financial affairs of the state in a businesslike manner, as shown by the surplus on hand, public charges have been properly cared for. Conditions in public institutions were never more satisfactory.

The record submitted by the emergency board follows:

Deficits.
School for blind.....$5,929.11
Industrial school for boys.....2,833.13
Wisconsin state prison.....7,592.64
Home for feeble-minded.....1,771.96
Wisconsin state reformatory.....$5,571.18

Total.....$26,695.02

Surplus.
State hospital for insane.....$1,806.94
Northern hospital for insane.....18,221.95
School for the deaf.....2,013.61
State public school.....3,013.61
Sanitarium for tuberculosis.....3,093.96
Hospital for criminal insane.....15,149.46

Total.....$43,844.59

To Revert to Fund.
Governor Philipp, Secretary of State

Donald and State Treasurer Johnson called in Attorney General Owen to pass on legal questions relating to funds. The surplus of the northern hospital for insane and the hospital for criminal insane, the two large items, will revert to the general fund. This amount is large enough to meet deficits without drawing on other sources contributing to the general fund.

PAUL AT ATHENS.

Paul was only a refugee in Athens. He was waiting the coming of Silas and Timothy before forging ahead to some new mission field. The city was palpably unripe for the gospel. She vaunted herself, and was puffed up with the consciousness of her superior intelligence. She had need of the little child, which is a prerequisite to entrance to the kingdom of heaven. But Paul's spirit was stirred, and he must needs speak out whether the cultured Athenians would hear or whether they would forbear.

What stirred his spirit was the sight of the city literally crowded with idol images. It is said that there were over thirty thousand of them. It was a proverb that it was easier to find a god in Athens than to find a man. No doubt Paul saw signs in Athens, as one may see them in India and China today. "Gods mended here, and new ones made to order."

All the aesthetics of Athens went for nothing. It was an offense to Paul if its best product was only an image graven by art and man's device. And so he broke his silence, first in the synagogue, then in the Agora.

There are those who believe that Paul was actually arrested and cited before the areopagus, the introduction of a deity before its public recognition by the State.

Others think he was taken to the Areopagus as a part of a solemn burlesque; that the mob flung itself into the seats of the judges, and that some one acting as the cryer of the court, with mock solemnity used the form of law: "May we know, if it suits your convenience, what the new doctrine of which you prate—may we know what it is? For you bring certain strange things to our ears. We would know, therefore, what these things mean."

Luke gives us in parenthesis a clue to the cause of this sudden assembly on Mars' Hill. It was a mere insatiable, intellectual curiosity, which characterized Athenian society. For the Athenians and strangers which were there, spent their time in nothing else but to tell or to hear some new thing. There were three hundred gossip-houses in Athens, open day and night for the interchange of scraps of news. No wonder that these crows fly down about Paul the moment he opened his lips about Jesus and the resurrection.

Amid the gaping and insulating throng Paul stood, the very embodiment of Christian gentility. He saw before him an opportunity of which he made the utmost. He was absolutely fearless, yet with consummate skill he avoided arousing antagonism unnecessarily. He even, in the dearest manner possible, found a common ground on which to stand with his curious auditory.

Paul was an accomplished and an observing traveler. Evidences of the fact abound in his addresses and epistles. Out of the multitude of things observed, he screened with a dextrous hand those he could use to best effect.

In some way he had taken through the city he had noticed an altar, the inscription of which furnishes him with a text—"To the Unknown God." With admirable skill Paul evades the charge of innovation which was made against Socrates on that very spot four centuries before. He is not introducing unawfully a new deity—only making them acquainted with one whom they worshipped, though without adequately knowing him.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.
Great riches are here in little room. A whole institute of theology is packed in ten verses. Paul strikes polytheism a death-dealing blow when in one word he declares the unity of God. Next the triphammer of his logic falls on the heathen idea of the eternity of matter, when he declares that God created the world. Next he affirms the spirituality of God when he declares that whom the heaven of heavens can not contain, can much less be confined within a temple made with hands, even though it were as large and lovely as yonder Parthenon.

The independence of Jehovah is affirmed: "He who is the Creator is also the proprietor of all things. It is impossible that you should serve him with your hands. Again, you are mistaken in supposing that the various races have sprung from the soil of their respective countries, so that some are better and others baser; not so, but God has made them of one blood. So you ought not to call foreigners barbarians, but brothers. You point with pride to the towering statue of Minerva upon the Acropolis, with a colossal spear made of the weapons of your enemies, gathered on the field of Marathon; and you think of her as guarding the city, but I would tell you of a Providence which distributes the races in the various places and which causes one nation to rise and another to fall."

Next he affirms the omnipresence of God. Our souls are as certainly enshrined in the presence of God as our bodies are in the atmosphere. In him we live and move and have our being. In a flash he reveals the folly of idol-worship. He says: "Your own poets, Aratus and Cleanthes, say we are God's offspring. Can God himself be a less noble being than we who are his offspring? You ought not to think that the Godhead is like gold or silver or stone graven man's device, even though it be as lovely as Phidias' famed statue."

And now the sermon, which began with all the art of rhetoric, closes with the plainness of an exhortation. Paul sets up a mourners' bench on Mars' Hill and calls sinners to repentance. He reminds them of the long-suffering forbearance of God, but tells them that it is now at an end, and that God has appointed a day of judgment, and that the Son of God is to sit at the great assize, and that the seal of this is that God has raised him from the dead.

The effect of this sermon was that some mocked. These were the Epicureans, who believed the soul to be material and perishable. Others postponed but some claved to Paul.

July 16, 1916 Daniel I 8:20 PURITY, TEMPERANCE, STRENGTH

The late John T. Trowbridge, pre-eminent America's beloved author, lived to be eighty-six years old, retaining mental and physical vigor to the end. He says himself that he was never ascetic, yet he expressed some fine temperance sentiments which are all the more effective for the very reason that they are not the utterances of a professional advocate and reformer. He says for example, "The stimulants used to facilitate composition are like stones let fall into a fountain to create an overflow. They forestall the supply and choke the source." Again, "Live while you live!" he cried, but did not guess.

WISCONSIN SOLDIERS ARE FIGHTING MUMPS

Several Men of First Regiment Are Nursing Swollen Jaws at Base Hospital—Rain Cools Camp.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

San Antonio, Tex., July 14.—Wisconsin soldiers are fighting the mumps. The first case of the epidemic, which broke out in the Illinois camp several days ago, struck the Badgers on Thursday and several men are nursing swollen jaws at the base hospital, where seven cases are confined. Every precaution is being taken to prevent the disease from spreading.

Thursday was the coolest day of any since the Wisconsin troops arrived in the camp, the mean temperature being 76 degrees.

Rain halted infantry drills here on Thursday, and the men of the First regiment were hard at work digging drains to keep the tents dry. The sanitary condition of the camp has elicited considerable praise from officers of the sanitation corps.

Company E acted as regimental guard Wednesday night and Sergeant William Shields, a member of Chief Clancy's office here, was orderly for General Richardson on Thursday. Shields is the champion shot of the Wisconsin national guard.

STUDENTS AT U MIX SPORTS WITH STUDY BY CAMPING IN TENT COLONY ON MENDOTA

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., July 14.—Thirty-five or more persons are camping in a tent colony on the shore of Lake Mendota. This summer, while about twenty of the members of the colony attend the summer session of the University of Wisconsin. The tent colony, which was started in the summer of 1913, is located on heavily wooded grounds about three miles from the university buildings, and the campers are combining studies in the daytime with fishing, boating and bathing in the evening.

The members of the colony are from all parts of the country. Many of them are high school principals and teachers. All of the men in the camp are summer school students and in several cases the women of the colony are attending classes. The colony is enlivened by eight or ten children, who got acquainted during the first few days and are converting their parents' summer study into a six weeks' picnic.

A bungalow study hall, screened and lighted, is a feature not usually found in summer camps. The campers furnished their own tents and equipment, and one student acts as caretaker, doing odd jobs for all and keeping the camp in order. The daily trips to the campus are usually made on foot or on bicycles, although passenger launches make regular trips. Mail and groceries are delivered on schedule by the boat lines.

Among the campers are: E. A. Bishop, Kansas City, Mo.; E. J. Cannon, Minocqua, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. L. S.

Daugherty, Cameron, Mo.; A. H. En-erlein, Wausau, Wis.; W. E. Harner, Wis.; Prof. E. P. Gleason, University of Wisconsin, Webster, South Dakota; George M. Naidl, Whitelaw, Wis.; C. Ranney, Stanley, Wis.; Miss Blanche Simes, Missoula, Mont.; N. L. Smith, superintendent of schools, Spooner, Wis.; R. P. Zimmermann, high school teacher, Champaign, Ill.
